2) When you're ready to add an item to your library, click here, then choose the item type. The UVC "House Style Notes" (which will be provided to you separately) give guidance on using item types.

1) "My Library" is your personal library. After setting up the Zotero desktop app, you'll normally be working here first, so make sure it's highlighted like this when starting.

6) Once you enter all the details for an item, click here to sync your addition to the cloud.

5) You can choose Author/Editor/Translator, etc. using the dropdown here. You can also add additional authors using the button at far right. Note that when completing this line, enter author surname and forename in the separate fields provided (i.e., don't put both in the same field).

3) Once you're selected an item type, this form will appear. Fill in the fields as relevant, again using the UVC "House Style Notes" to guide you.

4) This form might also appear at right rather below. You can change this by using the menu above (View > Layout > Stacked View). We find it easier to use the form if it appears below rather than at right (default).

10) As a final step, sync everything you've done so that everyone else in the group library can have access to your items.

9) After dragging the item(s) you created from your library to your subfolder in the group library, the items will appear in your subfolder, as in the example here. In other words, you have successfully copied the items to the group library.
